The third informal meeting of the 4th Hallym University Model United Nations (HLMUN) was held at 7 p.m. on November 4 in Room 1163 on the first floor of the university's Engineering Building.

Delegations discussed the roles of donor and recipient countries in post-conflict reconstruction, the management of aid funds, and ways to deliver assistance efficiently. Key issues included evaluating the outcomes of assistance and ensuring that aid meets recipient countries' actual needs.

The German delegation emphasized the need for continued attention and evaluation after assistance is provided. It argued that reviewing how funds are used and adjusting assistance based on results would improve aid efficiency. The delegation said its working group was discussing representation within the evaluation body, evaluation criteria, and the interests of recipient and donor countries. It explained that the draft resolution would allow funding to be adjusted according to recipient countries' needs and performance without reducing the overall amount of assistance.

The Moroccan delegation called for joint decision-making between donor and recipient countries. It proposed adjusting burden-sharing arrangements according to each country's circumstances rather than immediately suspending assistance when aid commitments are not fulfilled. The delegation also said its working group was focusing on the need for grant aid, the grant element of assistance, ways to address recipient countries' objections, and funding sources.

The draft resolution being prepared that day also included specific proposals for post-conflict reconstruction assistance. These included ensuring that recipient countries lead the reconstruction process and gradually transferring responsibility for projects once staff and budgets are secured. Grant aid and pooled funds would be prioritized for early recovery and essential services, while support for long-term infrastructure projects would depend on an assessment of repayment capacity. If problems arose, only the funds concerned would be withheld, while essential services would continue.

Other proposals included allocating at least 20% of reconstruction budgets to community peacebuilding and ensuring that residents affected by conflict and other designated groups account for at least 50% of participants in vocational training and livelihood support programs. The draft resolution also called for quarterly disclosure of financial expenditure.

The third informal meeting covered a range of issues concerning post-conflict reconstruction, including aid evaluation and management, decision-making between donor and recipient countries, and the need for grant aid. Delegations are continuing to develop the draft resolution while considering both aid efficiency and recipient countries' needs.

The 4th HLMUN is scheduled to hold its final informal meeting on November 11, followed by the formal assembly on November 18.
